Elder Allred Writes from Wash'ton

Elder Clarence Allred, writing from Onalaska, Lewis county, state of Washington, to the Leader, says:

"You will be surprised to hear from a 'Mormon' elder in western Washington. Will say I am receiving the Leader and enjoy reading the news. I am enjoying the best of health.

We came to this place yesterday. It is a saw mill town, and much of the lumber used in the U. S. and other parts of the world comes from this section. It was indeed interesting to us this morning as we entered the mill to see how the trees were cut, trimmed, and with the latest machinery were pulled to the saw, where with all speed and with little work on the men's part they were made into lumber. There are from four to five hundred men at work. Each one is on the job and as the timber leaves the big saw it is sent by machinery to smaller ones. Soon that old-tree (5 feet thick) under which we stood was worked over and mounded into the finest lumber on the market. Shingles are made so fast that we could not count them. Thousands are packed and stamped every hour. We are told that there is timber enough here to last such a mill forty years.

Thousands of men find employment in the logging camps. Part of the sports on the 4th of July was the sawing of trees and packing of shingles. Maybe you don't think this was sport, but it was interesting and the men did good work.

If you people in Canada had just a little of the timber from Washington that these people are burning to get it off their farms, you would have the best country under the sun.

A Lovely Garden

A Leader representative visited the garden of Hyrum Kimball this week, and without question it is the best example of careful and intelligent gardening we have yet seen. On half an acre Mr. Kimball has potatoes, carrots, corn, cabbage, etc., valued at $250. The system of drainages used by Mr. Kimball is one secret of his remarkable success. As a tangible evidence of what Sunny Southern Alberta's soil will do under proper cultivation and with plenty of moisture, Hyrum Kimball's garden cannot be surpassed anywhere in the country.

Work will commence shortly on a spacious, modern barn for Arthur Dahl.

Orton Rolfsen is at the Mendenhall Ranch building a large stock and hay barn.

Warner Record: We learn with regret that Mr. Hanna, the popular C. P. R. agent here, is to be transferred. Mr. Hanna and family expect to leave within the next few days.

Bishop Evans purchased a new "Chevrolet" car this week and J. Lambert Pack a "Ford." The automobile business in the south is still brisk notwithstanding the fact that this is the end of a very successful season.

Mr. King, of Idaho, father of Owen and Louis King, came in on the Utah-Idaho excursion.

As I told you we came here yesterday, held a meeting in the public school and will hold another meeting tonight. We are among strangers altogether, but have met some very good friends.

Recent Rains Will Insure Great Crop

After a thorough investigation the Leader feels perfectly safe in saying that the big rain storm of Tuesday and Wednesday did nothing but good. Wheat grain that was beaten down is rising, and the moisture will fill out the kernel perfectly. Wheat will ripen quicker if the hot weather continues and cutting will be general next week.

He Likes Alberta

After a week's investigation of Southern Alberta and its people, J. G. Rupp, field secretary for missions of the Reform Church of the United States, and a resident of Philadelphia, stated in an interview with the Leader Monday morning that this country gave every promise of becoming a wealthy and prosperous section and one capable of sustaining an immense population.

Mr. Rupp, and his wife, are en route to Vancouver thence to the Orient, where the Reform Church has extensive missionary hospital and educational interests in Japan, China, Ceylon and India. He will inspect them and otherwise familiarize himself with the missionary propaganda among the natives. Asked about the presidential campaign Mr. Rupp was inclined to the belief that Pres. Wilson could be re-elected. Economic conditions are favorable to Wilson's success. The States are now enjoying an era of unprecedented prosperity. Young men in the east who formerly were paid $200 per day are now drawing $500 a day in the munitions factories.

Aldermen Allred, Salmon, Fisher and Brimhall were present at the regular monthly meeting of the town council last Thursday. Business of minor importance only was discussed. The assessment was reported upon, and will be as follows: town rate, 25 mills, school rate 7 1/2 mills.

Dr. Dice, of Magrath, wrote the council asking for the appointment as health officer for the ensuing year. His communication was tabled until next meeting.

A request from the Provincial Health Bureau for a sample of water from the municipal system, was read, and the secretary will forward same to Edmonton at an early date.

At the court of revision eight appeals were read but none were granted.

Elder Irvin Fawns, who has been laboring in the Eastern States for the past two years as a missionary arrived home last Friday evening. Elder Fawns, who labored principally in the Maryland conference, reports conditions in the east as being very encouraging for the "Mormon" missionaries. There is a marked change of public opinion in favor of the Latter Day Saints. At Baltimore, where conference was held two years ago, only a handful of people attended. Last May when the conference was held the hall was packed, showing the changing attitude of the public.

Parley Van Wagner and wife and daughter, Grace, left Monday morning for Utah. From Utah they will proceed to Honolulu, where Mrs. Van Wagner hopes to regain her health. Mr. Van Wagner, who is an expert carpenter, has secured work on the L.D.S. temple now under construction in the Hawaiian Islands.

MISS HAZEL DAWN

Scene from "The Masquerade," starring this beautiful Utah star at the Rex theatre, Raymond Murphy and Timely.

Sunday was a memorable occasion for the people of the Magrath ward from Bishop Barker down to the humblest layman, this being the date on which the handsome new chapel, constructed at a cost of approximately $18,000, was dedicated to the worship of God. It was a proud moment for Magrath as they now have the finest church edifice in the Taylor stake and entirely free from debt.

Bishop Barker reviewed the history of the work. The trustees-in-trust of the church had paid half the total cost, advancing even more money than was customary. The bishop spoke feelingly of the generosity of President Smith in this matter. He thanked the people for their generous and willing support, and on behalf of the building committee, turned the house over to their hands. He referred to the splendid work of R. W. Bradshaw who had collected $1500. His Barker also thanked the non-Mormons who with very kindly feeling had contributed about $300 toward the church.

Patriarch Brantley then offered the dedicatory prayer. The prayer was of a very lofty order, and was full of fervent thanksgiving and supplication. With this simple ordinance, the edifice became the house of the Lord, belonging to Him from basement to tower, according to the revealed pattern in vogue in the church.

The new church is a strikingly handsome building finished in rough-surface Redcliff brick. Thos. Stevens was the contractor, and Sylvia W. Taylor, the designer. The front is ornamented by a tower of admirable proportions and much beauty. The interior is spacious, well lighted and ventilated, and is equipped with an acetylene gas lighting system. The basement is fitted with a series of classrooms, a kitchen for use in the social activities of the church, and the furnace room.

The church is a credit to the town of Magrath, and a monument to the faith, unity and integrity of the people residing there. A cut of the church, accompanied by a brief history of the building, will appear in an early issue of the Leader.

Large Crowds Attend Stake Conference

For the first time in many years the quarterly conference of the Taylor stake was held at Magrath last Saturday and Sunday in the new chapel, and while there was profound disappointment at the non-attendance of Apostle Smith and Elder Hart, of the general authorities, the sessions were largely attended and very instructive. The predominant theme was the Sunday School work, Elder Milton Bennett, of the Desert Sunday School Union Board, conveying many inspiring messages to the S. S. workers and parents present at the meetings. Pres. H. S. Allen presided at all meetings.

The services Saturday were unusually well attended. Pres. Allen delivered the opening address, reporting the stake to be systematically organized and in excellent condition generally. With bright prospects, the south country appeared to be on the threshold of unprecedented prosperity. But in their prosperity he exhorted the people not to forsake the Lord who was the Giver of all these material things. By Barker gave a report of the Magrath ward, and Elder Fawns, of Raymond, delivered the concluding address.

Reports were the main feature of the afternoon service, although Pres. Thos. Brantley gave a characteristic sermon, sincere, spiritual and pregnant with soul-stirring thoughts. Bp. Peterson, Wellington, and Bp. Peterson, Barnwell, reported their wards and Elder R. J. Gordon, of Lethbridge, spoke briefly.

At 9 o'clock Sunday morning the Sunday School convention was held, and many knotty problems were solved by the visiting officials from the south. This subject also entered into the morning session of conference. Supt' Ursenbach submitted his quarterly report at this meeting. A special appeal for a larger enrollment was sounded, and this will be the paramount ambition of the board during the next quarter.

The Sunday afternoon meeting was the main session of conference. A party of prominent Cardston people were present, including Pres. Wood and his counselors and "Aunt" Zina Card. They all spoke briefly. Bp. Barker gave a report of the building of the new church, followed by the dedicatory prayer by Patriarch Theodore Brantley. The general and local authorities were presented by Pres. Snow and unanimously sustained. Five minutes testimonies were given by Bishops Alfred, Evans, Green and Fawns.

Sunday School work was again discussed Sunday evening, and this proved one of the best meetings of the conference. A ladies chorus struck the true note of joy and hope in their very effective rendition of the selection, "Merry June," and it rebounded in the sermons. Elder John Green, Lethbridge, gave a very thoughtful address on Spirituality in Sunday School Work, and Elder Jacobs, of Cardston, spoke eloquently on the opportunities afforded the young people in this western country. His talk was of the kind that lead men to higher and nobler ideals. Pres. Snow spoke, "America the Land of Promise."

Vard L. Tanner, Raymond first ward, spoke on the normal school movement, telling of the success attained in his school. The music was especially pleasing. Miss Hortense Gordon gave an impressive rendition of "The Rosary," and

Miss Jensen that sweetly pathetic message from far-away Hawaii, "Aloha Oe." Mrs. Elva Barker sang, "Hosanna," and John Smith of Cardston, "Absent."

The conference music was commented favorably upon and the Magrath ward choir may feel well pleased with the results obtained. J. O. Bridge conducted, and Miss Amelia Blumel presided at the organ.

RAYMOND LEADER

Published Every Friday

$1.50 a Year in Advance

F. C. STEELE, Editor

Southern Alberta is being a splendid opportunity for advertising the country through the United States this year. Especially are we in this immediate section "throwing up the sponge" so far as boasting Raymond and Southern Alberta is concerned. What this country needs is more people and smaller farms. Until our population doubles or triples, Raymond will remain practically as idle as today. The vast areas of vacant land might well be taken up and utilized. This season we expect to reap one of the very best crops in the history of Western Canada. We wonder if our American friends know that fact. Utah this year is undergoing one of the worst years in several decades. The early frost and drought has killed most of their fruit, grain and alfalfa. Would not Utah then be a valuable field for publicity for Sunny Southern Alberta? We think it would. Do something for Raymond. Advertise Alberta through your letters, and the adverse impression now abroad in Utah as to this country and conditions here will in time be corrected.

The Leader intends to cover the big 1916 harvest thoroughly showing up the outstanding yields, etc., and anyone wishing to send the paper to a friend in the States may have it mailed to him every week for six months for a dollar. If we all do our part the stream of home-seekers, which one time moved north to Canada, will again be drawn this way, but it never will if we allow golden opportunities like those of the present to pass without note or comment. Think it over and do your bit.
